

January 10, 1985

but I sure do, and I think Senator Lamb does as well. We went through a couple of years of pretty hefty rule changes. I take the blame and maybe the credit for that when I was rules chairman back in '81-82. We did pass maybe ten or 12 different rules changes each year I was there. I think we all got bogged down, especially one year. We went two or three days I think, didn't we Howard, on rules changes. Obviously that wore down everybody. Senator Lamb was successful, and I even supported him at that time, to go to the two-year rule change situation. We've gone a couple of years now with that. It has really been no problem. But as Senator Beutler just said, it seems to me in order to allow Senator Morehead and the Rules Committee a chance to look at some of the questions about committee jurisdiction and maybe some other changes, they really can't come back next session and face the sort of barrier that we have in our rules now. I think they should have a chance to come back and completely redo some of those questions. Now that may take some time, but I sure anticipate, under the wise and careful leadership of Senator Morehead, that we are not going to have the same sort of long and prolonged debate and effort that we had a few years back. So I think we ought to give Senator Morehead a chance to work on these. I think we ought to give Senator Beutler a chance to work on these rules and allow us this rule change to work on those issues that Senator Beutler outlined.

PRESIDENT: Chair recognizes Senator Lamb.

SENATOR LAMB: Mr. President, members, they are trying to undo my good work. Was it just last year that I did that, or was it two years ago? I think some of you remember what a hassle we got into here at the second year of the two-year session when we tried to adopt the rules because some people had a whole lot of rules they wanted to run through before we adopted rules. John, there, was one of the big rule changers. What we are really talking about here is how many votes does it take to change the rules. That is absolutely all we are talking about because when we adopt new rules now, as Senator Beutler said, it only takes 25 votes to change the rules. But if you do it later, after the rules are adopted then, according to our rule book, and I refer you to page 9 of your rule book, and I think Senator Morehead has one there, anyway on page 9 of your rule book look at Rule 2, Section 2. It says these rules may only be suspended by a three-fifths majority and may be amended by a